

IMMIGRATION. What We Owe and What We Owe Not to Foreign Immigration—Who are the Native People?

Soon after I had written my article on the "Census," I saw the article in one of your contemporaries "Immigration." While the figures are in the main correct, the impression left on the mind is a casual reader will be totally erroneous.

Who build it up? Who found its institutions and maintain its glory? The hewers of wood and drawers of water do this. No negroes in the South have furnished its illustrious statesmen, or that vigor of intellect and nobility of spirit which enabled it to stand in arms against the power of the National Government.

Watering Places in the State—Neglected—A Wonderful Waterfall—The Old City of Lynchburg. Lynchburg, Va., Wednesday, Aug. 4, 1869. It has long been a subject of complaint and a sore reflection with Virginians that the natural scenery of their State, which they claim excels in interest any equal area of the Union, and surpasses that of Europe in the breadth of its panoramas and in many other respects, is neglected, especially in these later years.
