Accidents.

Ephraim Thomas, of Straban township, while feeding one of his horses on last Thursday evening, was very severely bitten in the nose by the animal, almost severing the member from his face. Mr. Thomas called upon Dr. C. E. Goldsborough who dressed the injury, and there is hope that the disfigurement will not be so great.

A son of John L. Taughinbaugh, of Hunterstown, had one of his fingers taken off by a cog wheel a few days ago.

George Little, a young man of Hunterstown, met with a probably fatal accident on Wednesday. The particulars of the affair are meagre at this writing, but it seems that he was riding a horse to water, having no bridle on the animal, guiding it with the halter strap. While going his cap blew off and he stopped to pick it up. When he again wished the horse to start, he struck the animal with the strap, at which the horse jumped to one side, throwing Little to the ground. The young man struck the back of his head on a stone. It is said that after he struck the ground, blood flowed from his nose, after which he made but few movements and is now in a critical condition. Little is about 21 years of age, and is a son of Postmaster John Little.—Record.

Latest information that we have is that the young man is improving.

Farmers' Meeting.

The Adams County Agriculture Association held its monthly meeting at Biglerville on Saturday, Jan. 16th, 1897, President Samuel Bream in the chair. Among other miscellaneous business the Association held an election for member of State Board of Agriculture, which resulted in the election of A. I. Weidner to represent Adams County for the term of three years. The Association also elected Samuel Bream as delegate to represent said Association at the next annual meeting of the State Board of Agriculture, to be held at Harrisburg, Jan. 27th and 28th, 1897.

1st topic, "Does it Pay to Fertilize All Crops?" C. D. Cook says it does not pay, at prices that farm products have been selling for the past few years, that fertilizer bills run up too high for each required for produce from the farm. He has not used as much fertilizers the last few years as formerly, and crops have not yielded as well either, but is of the opinion that by growing clover and plowing it down and applying lime he can improve his land and grow crops at less cost than with commercial fertilizers.

Some of the members do not agree with the gentleman. They are certain they can grow better crops and have more profit by applying fertilizers even with low prices that have been received during the past few years.

2nd "What Benefit is a Farmer's Association to a Community?" S. A. Bream says it creates a greater sociability in a community, when we meet together from time to time and discuss matters that we, as farmers, are all interested in; and it is beneficial by comparing notes and methods of wherein we have made successes and wherein we have failed, that we may profit by avoiding something that our fellow farmers have failed in, and profit by their successes.

3rd. "Does it Pay to Raise Pork for Market at $5.00 per Hundred Weight, if Corn Would Sell at 40 cents per Bushel"? E. Garretson says the profits at those prices are very small and thinks it would pay better to sell pigs at a fair market price and the corn at 40 cts., than to feed corn and sell pork at $5.00 per hundred weight. Further discussed by R. Lawver, Wm. Bream and W. Toot.

Association then adjourned to meet at Arendtsville next month. SEC'Y.

Wedding Bells.

We clip the following from the Harrisburg Telegraph, dated the 14th inst;

At high noon to-day the Rev. Dr. D. M. Gilbert, pastor of the Fourth Street Lutheran Church, performed the beautiful ring ceremony which united in marriage his son, William Kent Gilbert, of this city, and Elizabeth Reese Fink, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Fink, of Camp Hill. There were in the audience many friends from this city, Camp Hill and a distance.

The party entered the church by the right center aisle, the ushers, Mr. Forrest Hunter, Mr. Robert M. Rutherford, Mr. Frederick Mercer Gilbert, of this city, and Mr. Edward Worrell Manderson, of Philadelphia, leading, followed by the bride on the arm of her father. They were met at the altar by Dr. Gilbert, the groom, and his best man, Mr. John G. Gilbert. Miss Lillian Coyle Hench sang Lohengrin's wedding march as a processional. The regular organist of the church, Prof. William Knoche, presided at the great organ. Immediately after the ceremony Miss Hench sang:

"Marriage is a holy union
Angels guard it from above;
Marriage should be as est communion
Guarded by the God of Love."

Prof. Knoche played Mendelssohn's march as a recessional. At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding party left for Mr. Fink's residence, at Camp Hill, where a wedding breakfast was served. This afternoon Mr. Gilbert and his charming bride left on a Southern trip. They will be at home after February 18th at Camp Hill.

The bride carried a beautiful shower bouquet of white violets and lilies of the valley.

The bride's gown was of brown cloth with full front of white silk covered with chiffon. It was trimmed with fur. Miss Fink has been one of the most popular of the younger social set, and is a young lady of many graces of person and mind. The groom is also a popular young man and is connected with the bridge construction department of the Pennsylvania Steel Works.

JAN. 18.—The revival meetings still continue in the M. E. church with good attendance. Rev. W. Hesse, pastor of the Lutheran church, preached on Tuesday and Friday evenings, and on Sunday evening Rev. Dr. Ansadt, the well known Lutheran minister of York, delivered an excellent sermon. He also preached in the Lutheran church in the morning.

The musical entertainment in the Reformed church on Saturday evening, was welcomed by a crowded house, and the appreciation of the audience was shown by the attention given during the rendering of the program. The music was varied, consisting of the Solemn and pathetic as well as others of a more inspiring nature. All who took part deserve much credit, ye old folks as well as the younger and more modern singers. Mr. Henry Stock, the oldest of the participants is still familiar with the notes and their movement.

One of the social events of the New Year in New Oxford was the "Fancy Work Party" given by Mrs. Chas. T. Clippinger and her daughter, Mrs. Charles K. Yeager to twenty-five of their friends, on Thursday afternoon, January 7th, from two to five o'clock. Among the out of town guests, were Mrs. Martin King, of Philadelphia, Mrs. Chas. Stock, Mrs. Jacob Zouck, Miss Maria Hauer and Miss Charlotte Hauer, of Hanover.

On Wednesday last, Mrs. Charles Diehl, on Carlisle street, gave a dinner to a number of her friends, which proved such a delightful affair, that the hour of departure was regretted by all.

During the holidays, Mr. C. K. Yeager gave a "Magic Lantern Show," at his home, to one hundred and twenty-five children of town, which they greatly enjoyed.

The "Tuesday Class," a literary and social organization, formed by a number of the ladies of New Oxford, two years ago, continues to afford most instructive and enjoyable evenings. The course of reading for the present year is confined to English History, "Queens of England," by Agnes Strickland, being the work selected.

Jan. 18.—Lula May, the five and a half year-old child of Sheridan Saylor and wife, of near Mt. Carmel church, burned to death on last Saturday. Lula in company with her brother, who is seven years of age, started a small fire near the house, which was un-noticed by the mother, Mr. Saylor being absent from home at the time. In a few minutes, the mother attracted by the screams of the boy, ran to the spot where the children were, and was horrified to find the little girl's clothing all ablaze. By the assistance of Frank Baker, a neighbor living close by, they succeeded in extinguishing the flames, which had already burnt the little one's body into a crisp. Dr. Trent of Fairfield was immediately summoned and did all he could to relieve her sufferings, but to no avail. Death came in a few hours and relieved her of all pain, carrying her spirit from the presence of her sorrowing parents to that land where pain is felt and feared no more.

Rev. J. H. Cole has closed his protracted meeting at Mt. Carmel, which had been in progress four weeks. There were five conversions, all of whom joined the U. B. church at Mt. Hope. Brother Cole began a series of meetings at Mt. Calvary on Monday evening.

Messrs. George Bushman, of Gettysburg and Vincent Bushman, of near the same place, made a business trip to this place on Thursday.

Mr. James Carbaugh, the popular correspondent of the "Independent" from this place, met with a painful accident last week. While splitting a block, the axe glanced, making quite an ugly gash on the back of his left hand.

One of our young gentleman hooked up in his buggy one evening recently, and in company with his best girl, started for Mt. Carmel church. But lo! after going a short distance one of the wheels dropped off, and so the trip was postponed.
